After Years of Study by Committee on Marriage and the Home.

MOTHER WELFARE GIVEN AS REASON

No Question as to Necessity of Action, Says Report; Warns Against
"Advertised Nostrums."

NEW YORK, March 20.—(AP)—The "careful and restrained" use of contraceptive measures to regulate the size of families was indorsed today by an organization made up of representatives of 27 American Protestant churches having a total membership of approximately 23,000,000.

The indorsement was given in a majority report on birth control submitted after several years of study by the committee on marriage and the home of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America. It was issued with the approval of the council's administrative committee.

The committee unanimously agreed that, because of economic considerations and, in many cases, the welfare of the mother, "there can be no question as to the necessity for some sort of effective control of the size of the family and the spacing of children."

The committee also agreed unanimously that, whatever the final decision of the church may be, "the church should not seek to impose its point of view as to the use of contraceptives upon the public by legislation or any other form of coercion, and especially should not seek to prohibit physicians from imparting such information to those who in the judgment of the medical profession are entitled to receive it."

Minority Refuses Sanction.
A minority, however, refused to sanction the use of contraceptive measures and called upon the church, "when control of conception is necessary, to uphold the standard of abstinence as the ideal."

The committee agree, however, that "it should be expected that guidance will find expression through the researches and experience of physicians and men of science as well as through the corporate conscience of the church."

The majority report warns the public against "advertised nostrums, which are beginning to appear in tiny disguised forms in reputable periodicals and against 'so-called bootlegged' devices at drugstores."

"It is essential," it states, "to consult the family physician or go to established clinics or health centers for information or assistance."

The committee consists of 28 mem-

PLOT TO DESTROY U.S. PLANES SEEN IN BLIMP EXPOSE

Justice Agents Seek To Link Suspect With Crash
of Huge Army Bomber
in California.

CLEVELAND, March 20.—(AP)—A gigantic sabotage plot to destroy the world's largest dirigible and numerous airplanes was believed to have been uncovered tonight as department of justice agents continued an investigation of the wrecking of a navy bombing plane and an alleged scheme of a worker on the dirigible to freeze rivets in the framework with water instead of hammering them.

Paul F. Kassay, the suspected worker, was under arrest at Akron, Ohio, where the giant dirigible is under construction. He denied the accusations and said he was the victim of a frameup.

Federal investigators said Kassay had been planning to die in a crash of the dirigible, if necessary to accomplish his alleged purpose of destruction. They said he was a communist, but officials of that party disclaimed him.

The giant dirigible, named the Akron, is being built for its first trial flight early this summer.

No Damage Done.
Officials of the Goodyear Zeppelin Corporation, which is building the ship, and navy inspectors said no damage had been done in the alleged plot to wreck it, and that no fears were felt for the future safety of the craft. Every part put into the construction is given double inspection, but had it gone out with rivets frozen water, disaster would surely have overtaken it.

Department of justice agents had been working on the alleged sabotage plot nearly six months before Kassay's arrest. It was the wreck of a bombing plane in San Diego, Calif. September 3, 1930, that started the probe.

Pilot W. Y. Xpharaguerre was killed in that crash when an upper wing of his plane collapsed from a mysterious cause. His craft was one of 18 delivered to the navy in the spring of 1930 by the Great Lakes Aircraft Corporation of Cleveland.

Kassay had worked on them as an employee of the builders.

Subsequent investigation of the wreck showed that at least two of the planes which had previously passed inspection were dangerously defective.

Kassay Suspected.
Suspicion of the agents began to center on Kassay. Meanwhile he had taken a new job in the dirigible construction. The department of justice agents put one of their operatives to work beside him, and recently Kassay allegedly disclosed his plans.

Several others besides Kassay were probably being investigated, Harold Nathan, acting chief of the bureau of investigation, said.

Dreiser Slaps Lewis' Face Following Plagiarism Charge

NEW YORK, March 20.—(AP)—Theodore Dreiser ("The Genius") slapped the face of Sinclair Lewis ("Babbalanja") last night.

"It was an outrageous, scandalous affair," said Lewis, the only American ever awarded the Nobel prize for literature.

Dreiser's comment was twice as long—it contained 12 words:

"Rash and unwarranted insults were rewarded with two slaps upon the face."

The men, probably the two best known of American writers, met in a room of the dining room of the Metropolitan Club where they, with 25 other men of letters, were attending a dinner given by Ray Long, editor of the Cosmopolitan Magazine, in honor of Boris Pilnyak, Russian communist writer.

At dinner Lewis had said: "I feel disinclined to speak in the presence of a man who has stolen 3,000 words from my wife's (Dorothy Thompson's) book on Russia, and before two stage critics who have lamented the action of the Nobel committee in selecting me as America's representative writer."

There was a moment's strained silence as Lewis sat down, but nothing

Balchen at St. Johns, Hopes To Reach Viking Crew Today; 2 Pilots Well Known in Georgia Join New Errand of Mercy

Rescue Plane Reaches St. Johns on First Leg of Relief Mission.

ST. JOHNS, N. F., March 20.—(AP)—Fresh woes for the rescued and waning hopes for the missing were today's tidings from turbulent White Bay, where the sealer Viking exploded and sank Sunday with a probable loss of 28 lives.

Bernt Balchen, hero of many an aerial exploit, flew into St. Johns, N. B., from Boston, Mass., this afternoon in a plane in which he and two companions hope to search the disaster scene.

Caught in a vicious nor'easter, with snow driving all about her, the rescue steamer Sagana carrying 110 survivors from Horse Island was caught fast in an ice jam. Her arrival here may be delayed indefinitely.

The sealer Sir William, companion ship of the Viking, ended her rescue efforts at the bottom of the bay. Stuck in a vise-like ice grip, she became water-logged, burst into flames and sank 15 miles northeast of Horse Island, but her crew of 28 escaped to dogs to the sealer Eagle.

After bucking the ice fields in the bay, a half dozen rescue vessels practically abandoned hope for the missing men, including the Americans, Varick Frissell and A. G. Penrod, who went north to take sound pictures.

The belief grew that 27 perished when the ship exploded and burned. Tracks on the ice led to the feet of other missing men probably drowned.

Friends of Frissell and the others pinned their hopes on an unconfirmed radio message picked up by a Nantuxet, Conn., amateur radio operator. Yesterday the operator heard vague signals with the signature "Father J. Kerwan, Harbor Briton (N. F.) station Y. P. 8.3." Today he succeeded in raising what was apparently the same station and was informed:

"I told you yesterday Penrod and the two Americans were O. K." A Halifax message said the station is 400 miles cross-country from Horse Island.

Father J. Kerwan, however, later denied he sent out the message attributed to him. In a message received here, he said: "Deny report. Have no such information."

Harry Sargent, the third American on the Viking, has been reported rescued.

Late today Captain Abram Keen of the Viking and seven other men were still on bleak Horse Island. They were so weak that they must be carried off on stretchers, a task which could not be completed last night. Doctors were attending them.

Food and supplies have been landed on the island.

Jacksonville Man, Who Served in War, Has Life Filled With Daring.

MACON, Ga., March 20.—(AP)—Merion Cooper, known to scores of Georgians as a sergeant in the Macon Volunteers and later as a first lieutenant in the air corps, is on his way to another adventure.

Escaping from two enemy prison camps, bombarding his way through the war, making movies in the mountains of Persia and the jungles of French Indo-China, helping Poland in her fight for freedom and flying across the Atlantic in the Graf Zeppelin, are incidents in the life of Merion Cooper.

Now the man whose life has been adventure is going forth on another, and perhaps a greater hazard. He organized an expedition for the relief of the 118 refugees from the sealer Viking who are held behind a huge ice barrier on Horse Island, N. F.

Piloted by Bernt Balchen, a large amphibian plane took off from Boston early this morning.

This dardevil of air and land happened into Macon before his days of glory. His family lived in Jacksonville, Fla., and after a term or so at the United States Naval Academy he resigned and started to go home. But he didn't get home. He stopped in Macon instead and joined the Macon Volunteers, who were about to go to the Mexican border in 1916 with the 121st infantry.

Cooper saw enough excitement in Mexico to satisfy the average soul. He came back a sergeant, and was sent to the officers' training camp at Fort McPherson, Atlanta.

At Fort McPherson, Cooper was offered the rank of captain in the infantry. He turned down the commission and joined the air corps, with the rank of first lieutenant.

He was assigned to a day bombardment squadron and he flew his way to fame, surviving many hazardous situations, including preparations for his execution. He escaped from an enemy prison camp the day before he was scheduled to die.

And still he lives, to fly again on the wings of adventure, this time in a fight with the winds and ice and cold to hunt for 118 persons, missing from the Viking.

After the armistice Cooper was sent by Herbert Hoover (then food administrator) on a food relief expedition to Russia. He became acquainted with the Polish situation, and joined the conclusion squadron, which was composed of a group of American aviators fighting with Poland in her war.

CORFU, Greece, March 20.—(AP)—Two men who were accused as the brigands who held up and killed John Logan, of Gainesville, Ga., near Arta, in 1925, were acquitted Friday of murder charges.

Logan and three other students at the American School of Archaeology were traveling by automobile through Makrynoros Pass on May 10, 1925, when bandits held them up and shot Logan fatally through the thorax. He died a week later.

CROOKED GUARDS CAUSED RIOT, FIRE WARDEN ASSERTS

Joliet Prison Head Also Scores Civil Service in Statement to Legislative Committee.

BY AUBREY CRIBB.

JOLIET, Ill., March 20.—(AP)—New unrest in the model Illinois state penitentiary, which was swept by a million-dollar fire Wednesday, today broke into the first hearing by a legislative investigating committee as it listened to white haired Warden Henry C. Hill defend his stewardship.

Rushing from the quiet committee room, he gave to investigators a first-hand view of his troublesome job by hurrying away to Stateville in quick time and restoring order in a cell block where convicts staged another futile uprising.

Then he returned to attack the civil service, which he said sent "crooked guards" to him, and the parole system, which he blamed for crowding 1,795 men into the old state prison, built to hold only 900.

No General Complaint.
"Mind you," the warden said, "I'm making no general complaint against my guards. But there are disloyal ones among them. As fast as I locate them, I fire them."

"They add to the unrest, I know and everybody knows. We have spent hundreds of dollars to find 'stiff' guards are bringing narcotics into the prison, but thus far we have failed."

"I'm jealous of my reputation," Warden Hill said in concluding. "There is no one to speak for me, so I must say it myself. I've done a good job here. The job is too big for one man, but as it is I've handled it. The sensible thing would be to have a separate warden for each prison."

"In defense of the rumor that my management has in any way contributed to the unrest, let me tell you that information has come to me direct from prisoners that if I had not come when I did, the riot would have happened 20 days after I arrived, instead of at this time, and that it would have been a good one."

This amount, he admitted, must be paid back in September, soon after Governor-elect Russell takes office, and of course on Thursday, making the Russell administration also will inherit the $820,000 deficit.

LENGTHY SESSION NEARS 77TH DAY, COST OF $200,000

Many Members Leave for Home, in Doubt About
Returning for Indefinite Remainder of Session.

"TIME TO GO HOME," PETERSON ASSERTS

Plan To Adjourn Until Monday Scored; Many
Tax Measures To Occupy
Most of Final Days.

BY R. E. POWELL.

Headed toward its 77th day and a total cost in excess of $200,000, the special session of the general assembly—after Governor Hardman had killed and the senate had buried the only plan the legislature was willing to approve for relieving the state's financial emergency—stubbornly refused Friday to follow the recommendation of a conference committee and adjourn sine die today.

Many members, however, packed everything they brought to Atlanta and went home, in doubt about returning for the indefinite remainder of the longest extraordinary session to meet since reconstruction days. With nothing but bitterly contested legislation on its docket, a minority determination to force passage of any one of several measures may hold the session another fortnight.

Opposing the resolution of Representative McGhee, of Talbot, which called for adjournment until Monday, Representative Hugh Peterson, of Montgomery county, brother-in-law of Governor-elect Russell, led the house fight for adjournment this week.

"Time to Quit."
"The time has arrived for this special session to quit and go home," Peterson said, and the people feel that way about it.

"If we adjourn today, we are not throttling any legislation, but acting in good faith toward the people of Georgia. Many of us did not desire this extra session, but came here to serve the best interests of the state. A joint conference committee has made a reasonable date for adjournment (Saturday, March 21), but the senate is trying to hold this legislature in session."

"We have passed on the paramount issue before us—that of discounting the Western Georgia railroad tax—also—and the people from one end of the state to the other are crying for us to come home."

As Peterson spoke in the house, Governor Hardman, downstairs conferring with newspapermen, reported improved conditions at Milledgeville and announced that the state had $565,000 in the treasury.

Leaves "Surprise Check."
He told of visiting the state sanitarium and leaving a "surprise check" of $25,000 for the patients. He said a total of $185,000 paid the institution on the 1931 account since he borrowed $400,000 a day ago.

He said he would be paid back in September, soon after Governor-elect Russell takes office, and of course on Thursday, making the Russell administration also will inherit the $820,000 deficit.

Judges Sibley and Underwood Honored at Brilliant Banquet

Members of the Presidents' Club, with several hundred friends and admirers of Federal Judges Samuel H. Sibley and E. Marvin Underwood, gathered at the Biltmore hotel Friday night and roundly cheered a series of eloquent tributes paid to the two distinguished jurists by a quartet drawn from the ablest speakers of the state.

Featuring the preliminaries of the program was the announcement made by Colonel Frederic J. Paxton of Mell R. Wilkinson's resignation as president of the club, after serving in this office since the club's foundation 17 years ago. It was not stated who was to become Mr. Wilkinson's successor and officials of the club protested that they would refuse to accept his resignation.

Prefacing the program with a few graceful remarks directed to both guests of honor, Mr. Wilkinson, presiding at a Presidents' Club function for the last time, he said, introduced Governor L. G. Hardman, who took occasion to congratulate the state of Georgia on having produced two judges of the caliber represented by the guests of honor, pointing to them as examples of the highest type of public leadership to be found anywhere in the nation.

Robert C. Alston, first of the four speakers delegated to express the homage of friends, legal associates, and admirers of Judge Sibley, spoke of the state's indebtedness to the present administration at Washington for having elevated him to a position which he pointed out, was a fitting reward for his many years of service on the district court bench in Atlanta.

Mr. Alston traced Judge Sibley's career from its modest inception to the present.

Your family's HEALTH is worth
the few cents difference.

MERITA is not a cheap bread. There are breads that cost less. But there is no bread so popular as Merita—it outsells every brand in the South, regardless of price or other inducements.

WHY?

Because the women of the South know the importance of good bread. They recognize the big part bread plays in family health. And they are not willing to risk the most precious thing in life for a few cents of saving. They know you get only what you pay for.

That is why Merita outsells all the rest; it is better, and the women of the South know it is better. That is why Merita has freed so many women from the hot hours over the oven—because they know it brings them the food-values, the flavor, the texture they want.

And so it takes nearly a million and a half loaves of Merita every week to supply the demand. You try it, and you'll join the army who know Merita is better—and insist on having Merita and nothing else.

Abduction of Widow, 40, Charged to Two Youths

Mrs. Norma Shipman, 40, wealthy widow of Brevard, N. C., disappeared March 1. Joe Bradley, 21, and "Happy" Brown, 20, also missing, have been charged with abducting her. Associated Press photo.

BREVARD, N. C., March 20.—(AP)—Sheriff Ed Patton said tonight he was working on a "hot clue" in the mysterious disappearance of Mrs. Norma Shipman, wealthy 40-year-old widow, who dropped from sight three weeks ago.

The officer declined to elaborate, other than to say that developments he expected today had been delayed.

Two young men, Joe Bradley, 21, business assistant of Mrs. Shipman, and "Happy" Brown, a friend of Bradley, are sought on a warrant charging them with abducting the widow.

A farmer reported seeing them drive away from Brevard in two of Mrs. Shipman's automobiles a week after she disappeared.

CALDWELL NAMED IN TWO INDICTMENTS

NASHVILLE, Tenn., March 20.—(AP)—Two deposits made by the state less than two weeks before Caldwell & Company's Bank of Tennessee closed formed the basis for indictments returned by a county grand jury today against Rogers Caldwell, president of the two institutions.

Both indictments each containing two counts, charged Caldwell with receiving deposits in an insolvent bank. The first count in each said Caldwell knew the institution was insolvent and the second said he had reason to believe it insolvent.

The deposits were made, the indictments said, by Highway Commissioner Robert H. Baker and Treasurer John F. Nolan. One bill said Baker deposited $6,500 of bridge funds on October 28, 1930, and the other said Nolan deposited $50,000 of state general funds on October 25. The bank suspended November 5, and went into receivership November 7. A week thereafter, Caldwell & Company went into receivership.

Criminal Court Judge Chester K. Hart set bond at $10,000 in each case. James E. Caldwell, Rogers Caldwell's father, and T. D. Webb, formerly associated with James E. Caldwell in the Fourth and First National Bank, pledged real estate valued at $30,000 and $25,000, respectively, as bondsmen.

Caldwell is now under six indictments, two of which relate to alleged transactions at the Bank of Tennessee, two to operations of Caldwell & Company and the Bank of Tennessee and two to transactions at the Holston Union National Bank at Knoxville.

The last-named two were returned by a federal grand jury at Greenville, Tenn. The jury at the same time jointly indicted Colonel Luke Lea, Nashville publisher, and J. Basil Ramsey, president of the Holston Union Bank.

Conviction for receiving deposits in an insolvent bank carries with it a penitentiary sentence of from one to five years if the deposit exceeds $25.

ANTI-EVOLUTION BILL MAY GET UNION'S AID

NASHVILLE, Tenn., March 20.—(AP)—Representative Robert M. Murray, of Huntington, who has introduced a bill to repeal Tennessee's anti-evolution statute, tonight said the American Civil Liberties Union had proposed to aid in the effort to repeal the law.

Murray said Forrest Bailey, director of the union, wired him today that if hearings are held "we (the union) shall be glad to designate spokesman to support your bill if you consider support would be valuable."

The repeal measure, having passed second reading in the house, was referred to the judiciary committee today. It has not been introduced in the senate.

"This (the anti-evolution statute) means that Tennessee condones, cherishes and welcomes into its borders the wickedness of ignorance," the statement said. As the Tennessee legislature prepared to start a two-month recess tomorrow noon in the interest of its state affairs investigation, the house defeated after much wrangling a move to suspend highway activities until the highway department had been examined.

A resolution to prevent R. H. Baker, highway commissioner, from letting further contracts pending the outcome of the investigation of his department, beginning probably next week, went into the discard when a motion to table carried, 54 to 28.

Then another resolution along the same lines, except that it exempted federal and county aid projects from its provisions, was introduced, but its sponsors failed in their effort to suspend the rules for its immediate consideration.

The legislature will reconvene from its recess May 25.

SALESMAN ROBBED OF $100,000 GEMS

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 20.—(AP)—Moesha Rosenberg, jewelry salesman, for a New York firm, told police tonight that three bandits robbed him of jewels valued at approximately $100,000 after holding him up with pistols as he drove in the northern part of Miami Beach.

Rosenberg told Police Chief Michael Glenn a motor car forced him to drive to the curb in an outlying district. He said he first thought he was halted by police.

He quoted one of the three men as saying "We will not hurt you," as the man stepped into his car, pointing a pistol at him. A second man, Rosenberg said, entered the back seat of his car also carrying a pistol.

Rosenberg said the men instructed him to drive north and that the third man followed in the other automobile.

Later, he said, they took from him a consignment of jewels which he estimated to be worth $100,000. The value was only approximately, he said, and subject to later correction.

"The men acted friendly and called me by name as they stopped me,"

Rosenberg reported. "At first I attempted to bargain with them, but I was unsuccessful."

Adolph Ochs Deplores Sale Of Pulitzer Paper Group

New York Times Publisher Says He Could Have Saved Publications Had He Been in N. Y.

NEW YORK, March 20.—(AP)—Adolph S. Ochs, publisher of the New York Times, in an interview in Editor and Publisher released today said that he had been in New York at the time he is confident he would have saved the World newspapers for the employees.

"I think," Mr. Ochs declared, "that all the employees needed was leadership with strong financial backing." He added that "altogether it (the sale by the Pulitzer interests) was an unfortunate and calamitous chapter in the history of American Journalism."

"As I understand it," said the Times publisher, "the Scripps-Howard people have acquired the property for $3,000,000; $500,000 cash, $500,000 in six months and $2,000,000 payable in five years with a further payment of $2,000,000 conditioned upon the success of the merger. I believe the merger will prove a success and the chances of the payment of the additional $2,000,000 are very good."

"I am confident that had I been in New York (Mr. Ochs was about to return from Honolulu with Clark Howell, publisher of The Atlanta Constitution) when the matter became public through the application to the surrogate for permission to sell the whole property, I should have saved it for the employees. I should have been quite willing to assure the surrogate that the estate would get as much as, if not more than was offered under the Scripps-Howard contract and that the conditions of the Pulitzer will need not be disregarded."

At the time of the sale Mr. Ochs sent a cable to Roy Howard, who directed the newspaper deal, in which he said:

"Regret and am sad at the disappearance of the World. Heartiest congratulations on your colossal achievement. Welcome back to the Associated Press. Best wishes."

ASSEMBLY BEATS MOVE TO ADJOURN

which the special session was called to provide for.

Hope of adjournment today faded first in the senate when the upper house, voting 27 to 14, adopted Senator Redwine's motion to adjourn until Monday. Redwine explained that one of the important revenue measures, the house bill eliminating the "off set" clause from the gross sales tax act, had just reached the senate and could not be passed under the rules before Monday.

Recessing for the house to consider its sine die adjournment motion, the senate recovered after the two-hour fight in the lower branch and then adjourned under the Redwine resolution. The house motion to adjourn until Monday, with indications pointing to at least another full week's session, was passed by a vote of 100 to 50.

Amendment Turned Down

Before the fight over adjournment started, the house refused to concur in one of three amendments to the prison farm bill and the measure came back to the senate where the upper house withdrew its insistence on an appropriation of $25,000 to pay the expenses of the commission which will be appointed to negotiate for the purchase of a new prison farm.

The senate refused to agree to set-eral house amendments to the bill regulating the size of motor carriers and also declined to recede from its stand on an amendment to the Boykin income tax bill. This now has to run the gamut of a conference committee, with Monday fixed as the date for the first session.

Into the final snarl over taxation measures will be thrown the income tax, the general tax, the motor carrier tax and the cigar and cigarette tax bills, the latter measure having been approved by the senate with its rates doubled. House opposition to the measure as to the amended income tax bill, is reported strong, with the motor carrier tax act between the upper and lower millstones.

Division-Discount Hybrid. After agitation following the senate's final failure to override the governor's veto of the Battle-Allen bill to sell railroad rentals for ten years, another hybrid division discount measure appeared Friday. Representatives Maynard and Hodges, both of Sumter, offered a new bill providing for the sale of the state's division discount version of $2,000,000 of highway funds to the general treasury. The bill was sent to the ways and means committee of the house with no indication of when a meeting would be called.

Meanwhile, friends of the Western & Atlantic bill were marshaling forces to pass the same Battle-Allen bill in the first six days of the regular session meeting in June.

6,059,000 IDLE SURVEY SHOWS

To interpret its figures for the January census, beyond stating that percentages used were based on total population instead of the number of gainful workers because the latter figures for all cities have not been completed.

The idle were divided into seven classes. It was the first class—those jobless, able to work and looking for work—that Secretary Lamont estimated.

There were 758,585 persons laid off without pay last April; 172,063 jobless and unable to work; 273,558 having jobs but idle because of sickness, 87,988 not looking for work, 84,504 voluntarily idle without pay and 82,335 on vacation.

The January census showed the following number out of a job, able to work and looking for a job in the 19 cities covered:

Birmingham, 22,930; Boston, 69,682; Buffalo, 50,724; Chicago, 389,990; Cleveland, 99,233; Dayton, 17,681; Denver, 19,922; Detroit, 174,527; Duluth, 8,130; Houston, 29,163; Los Angeles, 98,150; Minneapolis, 35,158; New Orleans, 42,482; New York city-Brooklyn, 205,192; Bronx, 97,414; and Manhattan, 168,922; Philadelphia, 212,051; Pittsburgh, 60,029; St. Louis, 77,560; San Francisco, 41,103 and Seattle, 31,246.

The greatest percentage of these cities was shown by Detroit, with its 1,568,662 population. The jobless were 11.1 per cent of the total population and 25.5 per cent of the gainful workers.

Cleveland and Chicago were close second with 11 per cent of their populations idle. The Chicago gainful workers' census has not been completed, but the Cleveland jobless numbered 25.1 per cent of the workers.

Denver, Colo., had the smallest percentage of unemployment, with 6.9 per cent of its total population jobless and looking for work and 15.3 per cent of its gainful workers jobless.

The secretary said the January census in the 19 cities showed there were 368,149 persons, excluding those sick or voluntarily idle who reported that they had jobs, but were not working and not receiving pay on the day before the census enumerator called.

among them. All who could be reached declined to discuss the affair.

Lewis would not say what words led to the blows.

"Dreiser is a pretty big fellow," the Nobel prize winner remarked, "and must weigh pretty close to 200 pounds. I'll bet he could have put up a pretty good scrap if they'd let us go. Still, he's pretty old. He must be 60. He was an established editor in New York when I was a kid trying to get along."

Lewis, busily packing his bag as he talked so that he would not miss his train to Toledo, remarked that he once had been discharged by the Associated Press for incompetency.

"I'd rather be the reporter I might have been," he remarked, "than the Nobel prize winner. That is, sometimes I feel that way. It is much better to be bothering someone else for a statement or an interview than to be that person and be bothered."

present time and spoke of his insistence upon the justice of a plea before he would pass favorable judgment upon it in his court. His firmness on the one hand, in dealing with certain heinous offenses, contrasted sharply, Mr. Alston declared, with the merciful treatment he reserved for those cases which seemed to merit it.

Skilled Cabinet-Maker. A note of human interest was sounded when Judge Sibley revealed the interesting fact that Judge Sibley is a skilled cabinet-maker in his spare time, practicing the trade for the sheer fun of it. Mr. Alston concluded his remarks by calling attention to the wider scope of Judge Sibley's present position as judge of the United States circuit court of appeals at New Orleans, and added that to limit could be set to his legal abilities, even to the supreme court bench itself.

Reuben R. Arnold followed on the program, introducing his tribute to Judge Underwood with an interesting sketch of the duties and powers devolving upon him as judge of the district court in Atlanta. Judge Underwood's strength of character, his moderation and discretion were pointed out by Mr. Arnold as precisely those qualities which best fit him to hold the position of such power and responsibility.

A native of Douglas county, Judge Underwood is a southerner in training as well as in birth. Mr. Arnold declared, having received his education in the public schools of Atlanta and at Vanderbilt University, from which he was graduated. His integrity, his innate gentleness and consideration of others are matched only by his profound legal ability. Mr. Arnold declared, and amid enthusiastic applause, with the remark: "I feel that he is a man who will neither cringe to the powerful nor trample upon the helpless."

After a brief intermission in which Miss Minna Hecker, soprano, with Miss Irene Leitch at the piano, rendered three soprano solos, Eugene R. Black, governor of the Atlanta Federal Reserve Bank, took the floor with a group of tender reminiscences of Judge Sibley, his friend since college days, and interspersed his remarks with witticisms which convulsed the audience with laughter.

John A. Sibley brought the series of talks to a conclusion with an eloquent tribute to Judge Underwood. Benediction was delivered by Dr. J. H. Patton, of Marietta.

'Friend in Need' Caught In Burglary, Police Say

During the recent fatal illness of G. M. King, 1141 Seaboard avenue, the King family had no neighbor kinder than H. L. Ledbetter, 38, 1125 Seaboard. Many nights he sat at the bedside of the sick man and rendered every service conducive to his comfort.

Friday night, the police said, they caught Ledbetter burglarizing the King home, during the absence of Mrs. King. He had taken $200, a revolver and a ring, they reported. Emergency Patrolmen Arthur Dailley and Charlie Floyd said Ledbetter would face a burglary charge in police court this afternoon.

The slaying of Hubert was described by state prosecutors as cold-blooded murder and by the defense as justifiable homicide. T. L. Martin, a co-defendant, was convicted of voluntary manslaughter some months ago and given 12 to 15 years.

A petition signed by 25 per cent of the registered voters of Fulton county asking that the ordinary call an election on the issuance of $500,000 worth of bonds for the completion of a school building and renovation program and the restoration of a two-and-a-half mill school tax levy, will be placed before the board of education by its next meeting on April 7. County Superintendent of Schools Jere Wells stated Friday night.

Mr. Wells made the announcement following a meeting Friday night at the Leila Cox school in Grove Park, where approximately 600 persons from the Center Hill, Adamsville and Poole districts signed the paper. Elsas, Civic Leader, In Serious Condition

Louis J. Elsas, widely known businessman and philanthropist, late Friday was reported in a serious condition at St. Joseph's infirmary following an operation for appendicitis Wednesday.

He has for many years been a leader in civic matters and at present is a member of the hospital board controlling Grady hospital. He was appointed to that post by Mayor James L. Key the first of this year, when council took control of the institution from a council committee and placed it under the direction of a board of leading Atlantans.

Mr. Elsas is one of Atlanta's best known citizens and is prominent in fraternal and civic circles. He is vice president of the Fulton Bag & Cotton mills.

PAPER REINSTATING OFFICERS IS SIGNED

Hitting failure of the Atlanta police committee to sustain recommendations of Chief of Police James L. Beavers in demotion of a captain and lieutenant, Mayor James L. Key Friday approved councilmanic action in reinstating salaries which had been stricken from the borough fiscal sheet.

Action of the mayor means that Police Captain Grover C. Fain, who was demoted from the post of captain and rose again to that grade within a 48-hour period, will receive his whole salary and that Lieutenant Nick Carter, who was demoted to a patrolman on recommendation of the chief, will be raised again.

"If the police department is to remain under civil service rules, recommendations of the chief should be accepted in administration matters in the department," the mayor said in sanctioning the council measure.

Chief Beavers and Mayor Key held a conference Friday morning and both were of the opinion that the department could function just as well with a captain and lieutenant less.

HEAVENBOUNDSUIT IN FEDERAL COURT

"Heavenbound," Biblical drama performed by the choir of Big Bethel A. M. E. church, Friday found its way into federal district court, when Lula B. Jones, former member of the choir and holder of the copyright, sought an injunction to prevent alleged infringement of her rights. It was put on the calendar for an early hearing.

The plaintiff asked that Fulton superior court be restrained from proceeding in a suit filed by the trustees of the church and that the choir be restrained from performing the drama unless royalties are paid.

CHOSEWOOD TRIAL IS NEXT ON DOCKET

With ex-Alderman J. Allen Couch cleared late Thursday night of a charge of being interested in a city contract, preparations were begun Friday at the solicitor-general's office for the trial Tuesday of ex-Councilman Charles L. Chosewood, who is charged with simple larceny of materials from the city.

Chosewood's case will be called in Judge Edgar E. Pomeroy's division of superior court. The case was postponed recently when part of a demurrer was upheld and the state read the indictment.

NATIVE OF HAPEVILLE PASSES IN PURDY, VA.

C. W. Mangum, 59, for many years a well known resident of the Mount Zion Methodist church section of Hapeville, died Friday afternoon at Purdy, Va., after a brief illness. Mr. Mangum was born near the old Mount Zion church section in 1871 and at an early age was taken to Alabama by his parents. He returned to his old home after reaching manhood and remained there until the outbreak of the Spanish-American war, in which he served as a coast artilleryman. After the war he removed to Virginia, and engaged in the lumber and stock raising business.

"Cross Sections" Item Aids Ex-Serviceman

A brief item which appeared recently in the "Cross Sections" department of The Constitution has been instrumental in bringing a former service man into communication with his first lieutenant whom he had not seen or heard from since the summer of 1918. Incidentally, it has aided the former soldier in establishing his claims for adjusted compensation for disability.

Reading that the whereabouts of "Homer" Alexander were being sought, Hooper Alexander, Jr., of Atlanta, had an idea that he was the person referred to. It developed that a former service man, R. M. Bowman, of Memphis, had been in Alexander's company, and had suffered rheumatism during training days. As the result of an exchange of letters, Bowman has been identified by his former commanding officer as the disabled soldier and is thus in prospect for his adjusted compensation.

LAST RITES TODAY FOR COL. MILBURN

Prominent Atlanta Businessman To Be Buried at West View.

Funeral services for Lieutenant Colonel William F. Milburn, 42, of the ordnance reserve corps, who was found dead in bed Friday morning at his residence on Stovall boulevard, will be conducted at 3 o'clock this afternoon in the chapel of Barclay & Brandon by the Rev. Harold Shields, Interment, with full military rites will take place in West View cemetery.

Palbearers will be Joseph Fagat, H. M. Powell, Walter Powell, Edwin Denny, J. K. Orr, Sr., and Clarence Walker, and an honorary escort will be formed by friends and fellow-officers.

Colonel Milburn had been southern manager for the Addressograph Company for about 18 years and was prominent in business, social, church and fraternal circles here. Two years before this country entered the war, Colonel Milburn joined a French ambulance unit and received several decorations from the French government for bravery. After the United States entered the conflict he became an officer in the ordnance department, retaining membership in the ordnance reserve after the war.

A firm believer in the benefits to be derived from life insurance, Colonel Milburn left an estate of $100,000 in life insurance policies alone. He was a member of the North Avenue Presbyterian church, of the Rotary Club, and of the Gate City Masonic lodge. He was a graduate of Davidson College in North Carolina.

He is survived by his widow; two daughters, Miss Anne and Miss Helen Milburn; three sisters, Mrs. Belle M. Wagner, of New York; Mrs. Arthur M. Stille, of Columbia, South Carolina; and Mrs. Mark Hayes, of Chattanooga, and a brother, Douglas Milburn, also of Chattanooga.

PLAN TO CONSOLIDATE MILTON, FULTON SEEN

Judge Orville A. Park, of Macon, advocate of county consolidation and tax revision in Georgia, said Friday night on a visit to Atlanta that Milton county, to the northeast of Fulton, is seeking to combine with this county, and that the grand jury of Morgan has recommended dissolution of the county and its incorporation with a neighboring county.

Judge Park, who has spoken over the entire state in the interest of county mergers and revision of the constitution and the tax system, said he was encouraged by recent developments. He stated that he was of the opinion that as no Georgia county has ever dissolved and there is no precedent other than Campbell and Fulton, an act of the legislature is the best way to bring them about. He said there appears no doubt that Fulton will ratify its merger with Campbell. Judge Park stated that many other counties in the state are interested in merger plans, including several counties surrounding Hall county, with Gainesville as county seat. He said the territory around Macon, Judge Park added that he believed Jones county to be the logical county to merge with Bibb, while consolidation with Crawford also would be a mutual benefit. He is of the opinion that Jones county should be split and lower half be combined with Bibb and the upper half with Baldwin.

Held for Sabotage

Paul F. Kassay, 37, Akron, Ohio, reputed communist and former Austrian naval officer, was arrested March 19 on charge of criminal syndicalism for alleged threats to damage the huge navy dirigible Akron, now nearing completion at Akron, Ohio.—Associated Press photo.

Investigation at Washington, said. He added that further developments are to be expected.

Department of justice agents said Kassay confessed the plot to destroy the dirigible, that he "had his own reasons" and refused to implicate others.

Kassay, described as a war-time captain in the Austro-Hungarian navy, denied the accusation of intended sabotage and also denied the conspiracy.

William J. McDermott, Cleveland, assistant district attorney, in whose office much of the investigation centered tonight, said Kassay engaged in communist uprisings in Hungary after the war.

The technical charge against the suspect was violation of the Ohio statute on criminal syndicalism. He pleaded not guilty when arraigned. No bond was asked for and none was granted.

JUSTICE AGENTS SEEK PROOF AGAINST KASSAY

WASHINGTON, March 20.—(P)—Word came from the justice department today that its agents were seeking proof that Paul F. Kassay had tampered with a naval bombing plane before it crashed at San Diego when an upper wing collapsed in a suspicious manner.

Officials said additional charges "probably" would be brought against the Hungarian, arrested yesterday and charged with planning to wreck the giant dirigible "Akron."

Harold Nathan, acting chief of the investigation bureau, said it was already well established that Kassay had worked on the bomber while it was under construction in the Great Lakes Aircraft Corporation plant at Cleveland.

He revealed the justice department had begun its sabotage investigation, which resulted in Kassay's arrest after being approached by naval intelligence officers, who he followed a trail from San Diego after the bomber had crashed, carrying to death Aviation Pilot W. Y. Pharran.

Meantime, announcement was made at the navy department that an inspection showed Kassay had omitted from one of the Akron's stabilizing fins.

Work Is Checked.

Officials said, however, that all the work done by the suspect had been carefully checked over and that "no anxiety is felt that any damage has been done."

Earlier Nathan disclosed details of the extensive inquiry that resulted in the arrest of the man described variously as a "communist" and as a former captain in the Austro-Hungarian navy. Kassay has denied both titles.

It was said that suspicion was directed toward him before he left the Cleveland plant to obtain work on the big naval dirigible at Akron and that he was watched almost constantly.

The acting investigations chief said a federal agent of Hungarian descent was placed in the Akron plant as a mechanic and worked beside the suspected man. He dropped various phrases which would be interpreted as indicating communistic leanings, sought Kassay's friendship and fraternized with him socially.

Meantime, another agent was kept outside the plant for general observation.

Kassay Reveals Plot.

"Eventually Kassay showed our inside man all about his scheme," Nathan continued. "He was to take a rivet, place it in the hole in the frame and, instead of hammering it into place, would wet it with water so that the rivet would freeze fast in its socket."

"When the inspector came around to test the rivet he would find it apparently solid in the hole and pass it as fit."

Nathan said the agent had been told by Kassay the steel would remain solid so long as the big ship remained in the cool hangar, but would come loose when taken into warmer air outside.

"The rivets left in this way," he said, "were carefully chosen so that they would result in certain disaster sometime after the ship took to the air—depending upon the strain put on the frame in flight."

Although it was said officially at the justice department that agents were seeking to determine if any of Kassay's friends were involved as accomplices in the alleged plot, it was asserted that no widespread or sweeping investigation had been undertaken of a sabotage plot against aircraft generally.

FIRE INSPECTION SYSTEM IS URGED

Albany Chief Recommends That Firemen Patrol Downtown Area.

Recommendation that uniformed firemen supplant or supplement police officers in the nightly inspection of buildings in the commercial area made by Fire Chief D. W. Brosnan, of Albany, in an address Friday before the fire prevention committee of the Chamber of Commerce, will be followed by a request for fire inspectors for this work to be made of the city council board of firemasters in the near future.

Chief Brosnan, who has had charge of the Albany fire department activities for more than a score of years, is the incoming president of the International Association of Fire Chiefs and a recognized authority on fire control and prevention, his record at Albany being one of the outstanding examples on the North American continent.

The Friday meeting and address by the noted fire authority were seen as preliminary steps in a campaign to be launched here under auspices of the Chamber of Commerce, to reduce Albany's high fire losses and obtain a more favorable fire insurance rating, according to B. S. Barker, executive vice president of the chamber.

U. S., ENGLAND, FRANCE WORLD HOPE—FERRERO

The ultimate fate of the civilized world rests upon the shoulders of the three great democracies, the United States, England and France, in the opinion of Guglielmo Ferrero, Italian historian, who spoke at the Spelman auditorium Friday night. He divided the world into two groups; those peoples who had established a workable plan of self-government in the form of a republic or of a constitutional monarchy, and those who were in a transitory stage of potential chaos between an overthrown monarchy and a too recently formed democracy.

"We are living in an age," Dr. Ferrero said, "in which one of the greatest events in history is taking place—the sudden extinction of the oldest form of organized government, monarchy. No longer than 1900 two-thirds of the world was monarchical, the principal exceptions being America, France and England. Asia and Europe were ruled almost exclusively by kings and emperors. In the ten years between 1908 and 1928, by a series of historical and political earthquakes, these monarchies were overthrown and democracies set up in their places."

"During that 10-year span Turkey, China, Greece and even Syria and Palestine, under the protection of England and France, became republics. Russia, long considered the permanent stronghold of absolute monarchy, overthrew its government. Germany and Austria-Hungary set up a form of democratic government."

"The solution is obvious. Let England, France and the United States, through the mediums of the press, the schools, and the organized societies, disseminate that information which is most applicable to the needs of the embryonic republics. Let them encourage, instruct and protect them in their struggles for emancipation. And the result may be the universal tranquility that the world has been seeking."

with Russia over the independence of the former under the peace treaty.

The intrepid wanderer was captured by the Russians and incarcerated in one of their prison camps, but being Merian Cooper, he escaped.

After the war Cooper returned to the United States. He worked at various times, on the New York Times, and on newspapers in Minneapolis, Des Moines and St. Louis. Later he went to China, where he joined an expedition which was making a trip around the world in a 90-foot yacht. There he met Ernest R. Schoedsack, who has since been his partner in the making of moving pictures.

While anchored off the southwest coast of Arabia, the two men conceived the idea of filming grass, depicting the annual trek of the Persians across the mountains in search of grass for their cattle. It met with great success and was followed by Chang, the story of an elephant, filmed in Indo-China. Later they directed the wilderness sequences for The Four Feathers in the African British Sudan and Red sea hills.

Cooper organized the expedition the Viking being one of the outstanding disaster occurred. Varick Frissell went north some time ago to make a photoplay to be called "White Terror." He returned with it to Hollywood and was told it was magnificent, but lacked some of the "dramatic qualities" demanded by the movies. So Frissell and his friends set out again for Newfoundland.

Cooper is known to many of the members of the famous Rainbow division. The 151st machine gun battalion went to Camp Mills, on Long Island, in August of 1917, and found Cooper a student aviator. When the Macon boys sailed, in November, 1917, Cooper was a lieutenant of aviation. He embarked for Europe about the same time the Rainbow division was sent overseas.

When the Graf Zeppelin made its round-the-world flight Cooper was a passenger.

WASHINGTON, March 20.—(P)—One of 10 persons arrested in connection with the murder of two American women at Yunnanfu, China, was reported to the state department today as having confessed.

By cable, Consul Stevens advised that the Chinese foreign office had expressed regrets over the slayings. The victims were Mrs. Vera Moser, a White and Mrs. Victoria Marion Miller, both the wives of missionaries.

Chaplin Picture In Third Week Beginning Today

The management of the Rialto theater has announced that "City Lights," the wonderful picture with Charlie Chaplin as its star, inspiration and producer, will be kept there for its third week. There isn't another individual in the screen category who could make a picture that would play to the huge audiences which have patronized the Rialto during the past two weeks and who will continue to flock to the theater for the third week.

Inasmuch as the picture opened its run on a Saturday, the first show this morning marks the opening of the third record-breaking week.

"City Lights" is, beyond question, the most appealing comedy that the screen has known. It was written, produced and starred by Chaplin himself. It breathes the very spirit of the genius of pantomime throughout and contains some of the funniest "gags" as well as moments of pathos that add immeasurably to its charm. It is made without dialogue, Chaplin contending that he is a pantomimist

MORROW REPORTS TREATY PROGRESS

Agreement 'Satisfactory'
From U. S. View, Stimson Is Told.

WASHINGTON, March 20.—(P)—Secretary Stimson was advised today by Senator Morrow, of New Jersey, that work of the drafting committee on the Franco-Italian-British naval agreement was proceeding satisfactorily from the United States viewpoint.

In a 25-minute telephone conversation with Morrow from London, Stimson was informed the drafting committee's work probably would be completed by next Sunday.

Secretary Stimson did not disclose details which were understood to have been complete.

The committee's report will be submitted to Washington principally to provide information, it not being determined whether it would require Stimson's approval.

Foch and Pershing Concentrate Troops To Speed Up Advance

Proposal of Generalissimo To Insert French Units Near Americans Is Surprise to United States Chief.

BY GENERAL JOHN J. PERSHING.

With the first phase of the Meuse-Argonne offensive completed I was surprised to receive a proposal by Marshal Foch, brought to my headquarters October 1 by General Weygand, to insert the French Second army between the American First and the French Fourth armies.

It was suggested that the Second army should take over those divisions from the left of our First army that were in and near the Argonne forest, leaving the rest of the army under my command.

Foch's idea seemed to be that this would accelerate the advance. The proposal was similar to the one presented by Foch on August 30, which was rejected so positively that I thought the matter settled once for all.

Just what prompted the idea I was never able to learn, but I surmised that Clemenceau had suggested or directed such action. Clemenceau could not have had much knowledge of military situations, of operations, and he probably measured success by the number of kilometers gained in a given time, regardless of the strain on the troops, with which it was defended.

He assumed, however, to judge in such matters as though he were quite competent to make the difference between a position that was a French position and head of the supreme war council gave him authority over Foch. But the Allied commander was chosen by the governments concerned and was responsible to them jointly. He realized no doubt, that his position was dependent upon the unanimous support of the governments which had chosen him. That is to say, if any one of them, including his own, had objected to him as Allied commander-in-chief his tenure would have been at an end.

The proposition Weygand submitted was not sound because the different features of that front were interdependent and the advantages they afforded the defense could best be overcome by a force under one command. Another objection was that there was only one road leading to the part of our front which was proposed for the French Second army and in an attempt to use it for the supply of two different armies would have resulted in many complications. Moreover, the marshal, as usual, overlooked the fact that our men seriously objected to service in the French army and would not serve in it with the same enthusiasm as in their own.

I pointed out these objections to Weygand and told him that the change would, in my opinion, retard instead of increase Allied speed. He left with the view that I was right, and he formally disapproved the plan, sent by letter, seemed to settle the matter.

My diary at this point records: "Sunday, Thursday, October 3, 1918. Claudel came yesterday to receive instructions about proposed attack. (General) Claudel commanded the French Seventh corps at Verdun, which formed a part of the American First army." Sent letter to Secretary Baker.

Minor engagements have occurred since September 20. Captured positions being consolidated.

This afternoon saw corps commanders about the attack tomorrow. Roads rapidly improving and conditions better.

Serious situation as to motor transport again caused to Washington. Shortage in tonnage reducing supplies to danger point. The French have agreed to import locomotives and turn over cars made for them in the United States. Afterbury has cabled Felix complete rail requirements.

Washington Deal to Pleas. We were woefully deficient in motor transportation now that we had undertaken large operations, although the shipment of motor vehicles had been repeatedly urged upon the war department. Once more we were almost wholly dependent upon the French for land transport to move our troops and to handle about half of our ammunition supply.

To carry on operations we had almost to strip the S. O. S. of trucks, and this seriously interfered with work at the base ports, with construction projects at other points, and with supply of troops in general.

The shortage of ambulances to move the sick and wounded was critical, and we were compelled to borrow 15 American ambulance sections from Italy. But we had reached the point where we were no longer able to borrow.

This condition was not easy to reconcile with the suggestion from for opportunity of the American and British soldiers to fraternize. He felt that large issues to the future peace of the world depended upon the American and British peoples understanding one another, and that much the best hope of such an understanding grew out of intermingling our soldiers as they could learn to know one another, but that it seemed to him that there was some impediment to such an understanding, some obstacle to work to monopolize American soldiers for the assistance of the French and to keep them from the association of the British.

Weygand's proposal seemed to me to be a very real and serious one. I replied that I was profoundly surprised at the feeling he expressed, since Lord Reading and I had quite definitely understood in Washington, and our understanding had been set up in a memorandum of which copy had been sent him, that the British troops assigned for training with the British were to be subject to your call at any time at their discretion and that their training arm use was constantly to be subject to your direction. I had therefore no thought that there could be any ground for misunderstanding your right to take the American troops at any time you wanted them.

I pointed out that the president and I had repeatedly, both verbally and in writing, insisted that the American army as such was the thing we were trying to create. That we had no intention of feeding our soldiers into the French or British army, and intended to have an American army in exactly the same sense that Great Britain had a British army and France a French army.

That we all recognized the right of Marshal Foch to send divisions of Americans or French or British from one part of the line to another for particular operations or to create a composite reserve which would have troops of all three nations for use as reserves, but with that exception American troops in France were as completely under your control as British troops in France were under the control of Sir Douglas Haig.

The conversation led on my mind a very strong feeling that Lloyd George was right in his desire to keep the British both as a stimulus and for the fraternization which he describes, and that in this sense the French are desiring to monopolize the Americans and so come out of the war as our principal friends, leaving there having been real opportunity for co-operation and understanding between the British and Americans.

I of course gave him no assurances whatever, and when he asked me what expectations I thought he ought to have about the use of American troops, I replied shortly that I thought he ought to expect the American army as such to exist in the same sense as the British army and to be used there as a whole or by the detachment of divisions here and there wherever the army here and there was required for the cause in the judgment of the commander-in-chief.

The secretary's letter in my communication received from him, with his earnest purpose to do everything possible for the success of the war, and the solution of the multitude of problems which confronted me, his clear comprehension of my magnanimity, his sympathy, his understanding, were qualities that served to lighten my burden and inspire loyalty to his direction of America's military effort.

No American general in the field ever received the perfect support accorded me by Mr. Baker. His attitude throughout the war in so far as it concerned me personally and the army in France, was a model for the guidance of future secretaries in such an emergency.

GUARD IS PROVIDED FOR WORKING "DEB" NEW YORK, March 20.—(AP)—The New York American today said Miss Betty Gerard, working daughter of a wealthy family, had been threatened by unemployed women and had been assigned a police bodyguard.

Mrs. Julian Gerard, her mother, was quoted as follows: "One woman who telephoned was very definite about getting even with Betty for taking a job she did not need. In these times communists are inclined to be more radical than ever, so when other threats came a detective was secured."

A detective escorts Miss Gerard from a Fifth Avenue women's shop to her East 63rd street home and calls for her in the morning.

ROSPIGLIOSI LIBRARY IS PRESENTED TO POPE VATICAN CITY, March 20.—(AP)—Louis Mendicino, Italian capitalist, presented the valuable Rospiigliosi library and archives today to Pope Pius for the Vatican library.

The Rospiigliosi collection includes many valuable books gathered by Pope Clement IX, of Rospiigliosi, during his pontificate from 1667 to 1669. It also contains a portrait of Pope Clement painted by Carlo Maratti.

'ELU' THINS THE BLOOD Mr. Lloyd George said he had something which he felt it very important to say to me and to say with great frankness. We all kept quiet and he talked I should say for half an hour without interruption. I cannot reproduce verbally what he said, but in effect it was this:

That the British had brought over from the United States an enormous number of troops in the firm expectation that they would be trained with the British and would assist the British in the Flanders fighting. That they had gone to great lengths to supply and equip our troops and finally had some ten divisions of them about ready to engage in conflict and included in Sir Douglas Haig's plans of attack, when suddenly the five best trained divisions were taken away just at the time they would have been of most service with Haig's troops.

That later, of the five divisions then with the British, three were taken away, and that he was informed that the other two came near being taken away so that the effect of the whole business was that for all their pains and sacrifices for training our troops there and equipping them they had gotten no good out of them whatever, and that the American troops had not been of any service to the British, except in a few minutes when they were not into action with the British, peremptory and that the British should not go into action with the British, as they were not adequately trained.

From this he went on to say that he was earnestly desirous

Judges To Investigate Gas Rates in Augusta

Augusta gas rates will be gone into today by a three-judge court in federal district court here. Judges Samuel H. Sibley, of Marietta; E. Marvin Underwood, of Atlanta, and Alexander A. Korman, of Tampa, will hear the petition of The Georgia Public Utilities Company, serving Augusta with gas, against the Georgia Public Service Commission. The plaintiff seeks to enjoin the commission from enforcing an order issued February 25, 1930, prescribing gas rates for Augusta. Complaint of the company is that the order places confiscatory rates and is unreasonable and unjust, according to a return of less than 3.83 per cent a year.

BANKS POSTS BOND; TRIAL DELAY LIKELY

OSCEOLA, Ark., March 20.—(AP)—Bond of $2,000 was posted here today by A. B. Banks, creator of a fallen Arkansas banking chain, charged with accepting deposits in an insolvent institution.

Mr. Banks was arraigned before Judge J. C. Kilgore. He asked that the bond be fixed immediately and Judge Kilgore complied.

"I don't think he will be tried at this time of court," said the prosecuting attorney, S. L. Gladish, who obtained a Mississippi county grand jury indictment of one count, alleging that Mr. Banks as president of the First State Bank here, received deposits two days before it closed last November.

The penalty upon conviction is three to five years imprisonment. The next term of court will begin the third Monday in October.

The prosecutor said a heavy routine docket remained to be cleaned at the present time.

Mr. Gladish said the once wealthy defendant, until the crashes of last year, head of a statewide bank chain and of three insurance companies, gave no indication of what his plea will be. He came here this morning from Blytheville with his attorney, Burke Mann, of Little Rock.

Notified of the indictment yesterday at his home at Fordyce, Ark., he moved to Blytheville, where he conferred with former banking associates and attorneys before coming here today.

Mr. Banks left Osceola for Fordyce soon after making bond.

Six prominent business and professional men here signed the bond. They are J. P. Williams, president of the Bank of Osceola; C. C. Ermen, A. S. Bickley, H. A. Hale, H. B. Cartwright and Dr. C. M. Howell.

FARM CREDIT LOANS SENT TO TWO STATES

WASHINGTON, March 20.—(AP)—The first two loans from the government's $10,000,000 fund for use in establishing or strengthening agricultural credit corporations in drought areas were approved today by the national advisory loan committee.

They were for $30,000 each and were to existing corporations in Blytheville, Ark., and Andalusia, Ala., to increase their capital stock.

Other applications for loans have been received from North and South Carolina and Mississippi. They are being investigated.

Field. They voluntarily report at Candler field anytime during their spare time. There is now a list of 25 of these men enlisted for and assigned to the same or similar work.

O'NEAL, OF ALABAMA, HEADS FARM BUREAU

CHICAGO, March 20.—(AP)—"That big man from the south," as Edward Asbury O'Neal is called in the American Farm Bureau Federation, proclaimed today his creed for agriculture.

"I wouldn't say the agricultural situation is improving in this country," the newly-elected president of the farm bureau from Montgomery, Ala., said, "but I will say this: The American farmer is chronically optimistic and a most unselfish individual. Farm organizations have been exceedingly modest by comparison with many other groups in asking for government aid. We ask for equality, not for special favors. And I'm for non-partisan legislation on the farmers' problems."

The new leader of an organization of 1,250,000 farmers is a tall, graying, blue-eyed man of 55 years, distinguished by his hearty laugh which never deserts him during the duller directors' meetings. For seven years he has been vice president of the farm bureau and chairman of its resolution and legislative committees.

"I've been a farmer all my life," he said. My 3,000-acre farm at Fort Payne was the first Alabama land decided by authority of President Andrew Jackson under a grant signed by Henry Clay and John Quincy Adams.

"I studied law at Washington and Lee University but never practiced. Only public office I ever held was as overseer and that was by appointment. I own no stocks. I was the first head of the Lauderdale county farm bureau in 1921 and I've been president of the Alabama farm bureau for eight years."

O'Neal's country home is two miles from Muscle Shoals dam and he has entertained Henry Ford congressional leaders and others interested in the controversial legislation on the power plant there.

Only today the farm bureau directors referred to a special committee the problem of drawing up a plan to operate Muscle Shoals as a subsidiary of the bureau. E. H. Hester, of Des Moines, vice president, was named chairman.

O'Neal is president of the Alabama farm bureau's subsidiary co-operative on mutual supply, finance and cotton. "Alabama was the first state in the old south to co-ordinate its farm organizations and various co-operatives, and Cullman county," here his voice betrayed his pride, "has the third largest membership of any county farm bureau in the country. And the state bureau did $17,000,000 in business last year with a 1.3 per cent overhead."

MOBILE, Ala., March 20.—(AP)— While horror-stricken persons looked on helplessly, Mrs. J. W. Collier, 42-year-old deaf and dumb resident of Citronelle, 20 miles north of here, was instantly killed today by a Mobile & Ohio passenger train, according to information received here.

Mrs. Collier was walking on the railroad tracks to visit neighbors when the fatal accident occurred.

New Stage and Screen Shows Offered at Theaters Today

An especially intriguing comedy feature is the principal offering on the new program which opens this morning at the Fox theater. It is "Don't Bet on Women," a light problem play based upon the question, "Are All Women Bad?" Edna Mae and Jeanette MacDonald are the principal players, while Roland Young, Una Merkel and J. M. Kerrigan have splendid supporting roles. Of course, it answers the question propounded in the negative, but in doing so it carries the audience through some of the most delicious comedy of the screen season.

On the stage the Fox brings Fanchon and Marco's "Fountain of Youth" idea which is not only notable for the customary spectacular beauty and perfect presentation of the F. & M. offerings, but also boasts one of the most sensational and spectacular illusions, a real water fountain in which a score of lovely Sunkist Beauties swim, dive and disappear.

A special short subject is "Fisherman's Paradise," a thrill-packed story of tuna fishing off the south California coast. Enrico Leide with the Fox concert orchestra, Al Evans at the organ and other special attractions complete the bill.

CLEVER FILM AND TWO HEADLINERS AT GEORGIA
A new program of RKO vaudeville that boasts two genuine headline acts and another of the "Super-7" pictures, this time "Honor Among Lovers" is the new entertainment offering at the Georgia, opening this morning.

"Honor Among Lovers" is an ultra modern story of romance, matrimony and love set among the big business figures of Wall Street. The players include Claudette Colbert, Fredric March, Charles Ruggles, Ginger Rogers, Monroe Owsley, etc. It is the story of a beautiful private secretary who rejects the love of her employer—who does not offer marriage—for matrimony with a young broker and who finds, later, that she made the wrong choice. It is an absorbing and entrancing story of love from the viewpoint of the wise girl of 1931.

Ben Greet Players To Give Shakespearian Plays Today

SIR PHILIP BEN GREET.

Twice today, matinee and night, Atlanta will, if all signs don't fail, prove that, in this city at least, Shakespeare's name is still the best box office bet in the theater.

The Ben Greet Players, headed by Sir Philip Ben Greet, will play at the auditorium, giving "Twelfth Night" at the matinee—beginning at 2:30, and "Hamlet" at night, 8:30. And it is assured that the big auditorium will be filled to its capacity for both performances.

A remarkable feature of the drawing power of the Ben Greet Shakespearean productions is that the large majority of their audiences are young people—boys and girls of high school and college age and a little over. Youngsters who are, according to most of the students of trends of the times, so enamored of mechanical drama that they know nothing of the speaking stage. The generation that is blamed for the decline of "road companies," and the closing of nearly all the legitimate theaters outside of New York, Chicago, San Francisco and Los Angeles, are the very ones who are flocking to the Ben Greet Players.

new program opening today. It is "Ten Cents a Dance," with Barbara Stanwyck in the star role. It is a ripping story of the girls who make their living in the cheaper night clubs of the big city, to be hired by all comers as dancing partners for "ten cents a dance." Reports state that it is by far the best thing Miss Stanwyck has yet done, showing her in an emotional role that demands and receives all the acting artistry of which she is possessed.

On the stage the A. B. Marcus Company assemble all the lovely girls for which this company is noted and present a spectacular revue in many scenes, entitled "Glorifying the American Girl." As the title indicates, the offering centers around feminine pul-

PRESIDENT'S SHIP HITS ROUGH SEAS

U. S. S. ARIZONA, March 20.—(AP)—After passing through a bit of sea, the cruiser Arizona, which is taking President Hoover on a vacation to Porto Rico and the Virgin islands, tonight passed the halfway mark of the voyage.

The president, who is enjoying a complete rest on the trip, experienced the roughest weather today since leaving Hampton Roads. There was a heavy rainfall and squalls and ground swells rocked the Arizona, at times causing waves to break over the quarter deck.

Although he is in constant touch with Washington by radio, Mr. Hoover is devoting little time to business matters. He sleeps late and walks about the deck in summer clothing. The president's party is due to land at Ponce, Porto Rico, Monday morning. Accompanied by Governor Theodore Roosevelt and a welcoming committee, President Hoover will proceed to San Juan, where he will spend the night. From Porto Rico he will go to the Virgin islands.

TALKING IT OVER BY CAROLINE CHATFIELD

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

The Crucible, That Heat-Resistant Vessel, Was Made for Metal, Not for Hearts, But Hearts Are Sometimes Thrust Into It.

I received a letter from a woman this morning which I shall print in full. I consider it the most powerful indictment that beauty could bring against a beast. She did not sign her name, nor did she tell how she could be reached. Through her fine poetic fancy, uneducated though it is, great waves of sympathy, which her letter will start, must reach her troubled waters, and in these waves she will surely find some solace.

DEAR MISS CHATFIELD: I am coming to you with a broken heart. I married a man who I thought would be good to me. He was a nice boy and I loved him with all my heart. For five years we were very happy and he seemed to love me very much. We went places together and life was sweet to me. Now I have four children who are very dear to me. I am only 27 years old and look younger. People tell me I am very pretty.

I work hard. I do all my housework, tend to the children, do the washing, and I am worked down. My husband seems to have lost respect for me. He does not give me any more for anything. He pays his own bills and keeps what is left. He goes where he pleases and will never take me with him. He tells me the place for a woman, with little children, is at home and I have to stay there. I told him I did not want to stay at home all the time but I wouldn't hold him. I would take the children and go alone. He said if I went out I might take my things and not come back. Then he cursed me and said he would whip me. I cannot quarrel because it makes me nervous, so I tried to hold myself together.

When he is not eating and sleeping he is gone. Although I do everything for him, he acts like he hates me. I planned to go to church Sunday night and when I told him about it he struck me and said I should not go. I would not want to live this way but for my children. I sometimes feel like killing myself. Isn't it strange that a man can hate his wife when she has worked herself down for him and brought four children into the world for him?

He planted a plant of love in my heart ten years ago and he has stepped on it and he won't let it grow and it is suffering very much for the lack of someone to care for it.

I had a sweet dream last night. I dreamed of the happy days we used to have but when I waked up it was only a dream and I was hurt. If I could just be happy once more!

I don't tell my husband how wretched I am. I try to make life pleasant for him, but as soon as he goes out I cry my heart out. If I do let him know that I am miserable he treats me worse and curses me and tells me I am a fool. I guess he is right, for a woman who would wear her heart out over a man like him is a fool. But I have my children and no other home to go to, so I cannot help myself.

My brother is good to me but he lives many miles away and all the other members of my family have moved away too. When they are around he seems to be a little afraid of them and when he thinks they are coming he curses me.

I am at my journey's end and I cannot turn back until you show me the way. If you see any way tell me, for I am too young to give up all pleasure and be confined in my house. My nerves will not stand it if my heart could. I would not mind the hard times and the hard work if I could have love and could feel happy once again.

I know you cannot print all this letter in the paper, but surely you can take enough space to tell me what to do.

UNHAPPY WOMAN.

ANSWER: My dear broken-hearted woman, you are in the crucible. A crucible is a melting pot made of some substance that resists fire and into it is poured steel to be melted and in the burning to be refined. Outside a great American city there is a huge plant and written on the office building are the words "Crucible Steel."

Out of that vast plant comes a superior and costly grade of steel which is used for fine blades and instruments.

When I pass it, hereafter, I shall think of you and wonder if you have come out of your fiery furnace. It may destroy the flesh and the parts that are destructible but it cannot destroy the spirit of you. Not even the crucible can destroy your dreams, your comforting memories of happy days.

What can be done with a brutish husband? Who is wise enough to tell you? Not I. There is scant chance that he may ever turn out to be the prince of the fairy story you call "Beauty and the Beast." But gentleness and kindness and self-control on your part may lull him into a sleep, in which he is not actively brutish.

You are not at the journey's end. You have only come to the parting of the ways. There are now two roads before you and you must choose the one down which you and the little ones may walk together. You will find some flowers along the way and some springs of water. It will not all be good going. Life never is. But with the courage that always comes to crown an honest effort you will find it not a hard road.

CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Burgess Children's Stories

RED SHOULDER IS DISGUSTED.

By Thornton W. Burgess.

Joy is expressed in many ways. Some of these look silly to other folk, but they are not. They are just as much an expression of joy as singing or dancing. People just bubbling over with joy and who cannot sing or dance have to do something, so they do other things. Flip the Terrier races around and barks as if he would bark his head off. Farmer Brown's horse kicks up his heels. Drummer the Woodpecker beats a tattoo on a dead limb or a hollow tree. Redshoulder the Hawk screams as he soars high overhead. It all means the same thing, and none of it is silly. It is all an expression of sheer happiness.

Now shortly after the arrival of the Redshoulders some big cousins of theirs arrived. They were White-tails the Marsh Hawk and Mrs. White-tail. They were just a little, and only a little, smaller than the Redshoulders, but more slender and with narrower wings. Their tails were longer, too. They didn't visit the Green Forest, but spent all their time on or over the Green Meadows. They do not like trees, but like fields and marshy places and open lands. Redshoulder was not particularly pleased when they arrived. With them hunting day after day there wouldn't be so many mice for Mrs. Redshoulder and himself.

Mrs. White-tail was a little bigger than Mrs. Redshoulder. The day after they arrived Redshoulder happened to be sitting where he could look all over the Green Meadows. He saw Mrs. White-tail sitting on a fence post. At first he didn't see White-tail. He heard a scream from high in the air. Looking up he was startled to see White-tail falling as if he had been suddenly struck in midair. Over and over White-tail fell. There had been no bang of a terrible gun, yet White-tail was falling just as Redshoulder had seen a bird fall when shot.

"There is nothing the matter with him. He is just showing off before Mrs. White-tail," muttered Redshoulder. "How silly! How perfectly silly!" Redshoulder had forgotten that he had done a lot of showing off before Mrs. Redshoulder. It had been in a different way, but it had been showing off just the same. Then, too, perhaps he was a wee bit jealous. That was wonderful flying and he knew it. He couldn't do things like that. He was trying to express the joy that filled him, joy in spring, joy in having such a handsome mate, joy in being back to the Green Forest, and joy in thought of the home they would soon have somewhere on the Green Meadows. He was turning somersaults and cutting capers in the air. It was the very same reason that Peter the Hyle was singing in the Snail Pool and Winsome Bluebird was softly whistling from a fence post on the edge of the Old Orchard.

There was no reason for Redshoulder to be disgusted; not the least bit of a reason. (Copyright, 1931, for The Constitution.)

BEAUTY FASHIONS

A SMART STYLE FOR THE GROWING GIRL.

7128. The raised waistline is cleverly featured in this model. Flare skirt sections lengthen the shortened waist, and are cut in one with a panel that meets a very pleasing collar in V-neck outline. The shoulder is long, forming short sleeve extensions over the top of the arm, which are finished with an upturned cuff. This short sleeve may be lengthened by a wrist-length portion gathered to a narrow band cuff as shown in the small view. Designed in 5 sizes: 6, 8, 10, 12 and 14 years. For a 10-year size with long sleeves 2 3/4 yards of 35-inch material is required. With short sleeves the material will be 1-3/4 yards less. To face collar and upturned cuffs with contrasting material as shown in the large view, will require 3-8 yard 35 inches wide. Patterns mailed to any address on receipt of 10c in silver or stamps. STYLES BY ANNETTE

THE PARIS SPRING STYLES ARE PRINTED.

If you need slimming here's a lovely model for you, for a slenderizing effect is apparent at a glance. A problem that confronts every style creator is the woman that is no longer slender. And it is a problem that one must give serious thought. To be smart, the figure must be made to appear slender and that means it must be lengthened in effect. Today's dress will please the most fastidious. It is one of those simple smart types that is ever ready to meet daytime occasions generally for most of us.

A crepe printed silk made the original. Style No. 257 may be had in sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46 inches bust. Plain crepe silk, rayon novelties, these woven fabrics may also be used to fashion it.

Size 36 requires 3 3/4 yards 39-inch with 1-4 yard 35-inch contrasting. Spring, the season of prettiest styles, will soon be here. Prepare now by ordering a copy of our new Fashion Magazine. Attractive styles for women, misses and children. And instructive lessons in sewing.

PAINFUL, WEAK CONDITION

Mrs. H. V. Skaggs, of Van, Texas, writes: "A number of years after I was married, my health was very poor. I suffered so much in my hips and shoulders. I had some pain across my body. 'I read of Cardui, took a bottle, and it did me good. 'I was weak before I took Cardui. I was yellow as a pumpkin. I was hardly able to get around. It sure did help me. I felt like a different woman. I felt like I had more life in me more good than anything I had ever taken.'"

By John L. Cooley.

NEW YORK, March 20.—(AP)—The stock market had to contend with profit-taking today, but closed irregularly higher, thanks largely to a late drive against the shorts in a few issues.

The market came back in the last hour as the bulls engineered a squeeze in Westinghouse, Auburn and Stone & Webster. Nevertheless, there was a sprinkling of small net losses in important issues. The day's turnover of 2,700,000 shares was 800,000 smaller than Thursday's.

General Motors continued to reflect strong support and made another new high, rising nearly a point net. The advance in Westinghouse, Auburn and Stone & Webster, was conspicuous among the utilities which on the whole were subjected to profit-taking.

United States Steel was at the 3-point net at the close. American Telephone lost a point, but American Radio, American Smelting, Hudson Motors, Studebaker, General Electric, Sears Roebuck, Safeway Stores and American Water Works finished higher.

The tone of the market was improved substantially by the action of the rails. Aviation shares were active and stronger, reflecting approval of the first batch of new government contracts.

The peg in stock exchange call money rates finally broke after holding for many weeks, and the charge for C. S. loans was lowered, to 10 per cent, the lowest since June, 1915, when the lowest was 10 per cent.

Circles explained that this was an aftermath of the accumulation for the government financing and tax payments.
